

MAY 05, 2010 HIGH: 54 LOW: 40

SUBSCRIBE GIVE A GIFT E-NEWSLETTERS

Enter Search Keywords

Get the
BEST OF THE CITY
delivered to your door, every month.

 Subscribe Today!

YOU ARE HERE: HOME / BLOGS / NOSH PIT / POST

Nosh Pit

Openings

Burien Is Getting a Grand Central Bakery

Construction should be complete in early August.

Posted by: Christopher Werner on Apr 29, 2010 at 01:50PM

5 Comments

An architectural rendering of the bakery.

Grand Central Bakery is opening a third Seattle storefront at 626 SW 132 152 Street in Burien. GCB partner Gabrielle Moorhead says the artisanal bake shop should be ready for business the first week of August.

Why Burien? For one, grocers in the area currently do not carry Grand Central goods (they're readily available elsewhere), so the new hub will provide southern Seattleites with easier access. Burien is also burgeoning, Moorhead said, adding its strong sense of community and family is a real draw.

As for the bakery's interior, expect plenty of exposed beams, communal tables, and reclaimed wood—Grand Central is aiming for "as green of a space as possible."

Tags: Openings

Print | ShareThis | Email | Discuss

Comments

By Friend on Apr 29, 2010 at 3:27PM

I believe that should be 626 SW 152 Street not 132.

By jess on Apr 30, 2010 at 8:06AM

Have you heard any talk of the Pioneer Square GCB closing? I hope not. The line is a maddening snafu every time, but the salads are fantastic.

By Chris on Apr 30, 2010 at 9:44AM

Hmmm, I haven't. If it's so busy why would it close?

By Meghan Stuart on May 04, 2010 at 12:25PM

Hi all – just a word from the GCB mouth (I am Gabrielle's assistant) – The Pioneer Square GCB has no plans to close! While we are saddened by the exodus arounds us, such as Elliott Bay Books and Mary Megan Olander, we are staying put. This was the original GCB location, and this neighborhood is very near and dear to our hearts. And yes, that lunchtime line is certainly a good indication that we are very much wanted! We look forward to growing with the neighborhood and welcoming new tenants into the Pioneer Square community in the coming months, years and decades. Please come say hello in Pioneer Square, Eastlake AND Burien!

SUBSCRIBE AND SAVE 80%

 Subscribe Today!

About this blog

Kathryn Robinson has reviewed restaurants in Seattle for over 25 years. Food and drink editor Jessica Voelker and web editor Chris Werner head up a team of hungry contributors who dish on the latest openings and closings, can't-miss culinary events, and food and recipes from our vibrant farm-fresh scene.

To stay up on the hottest new restaurants, happy hours, and top chefs, sign up to receive Seattle Met's weekly Nosh Pit News via email. Email the editor »

Nosh Pit is your minimum daily requirement for all the tasty stuff that puts the "eat" in Seattle.

Tags: Awards and Accolades, Best wine bar, Brunch, Chefs, Delivery and Take Home, Farmers Markets, Food Events and Festivals, Food Finds, Grocery Shopping, Locavore News, Lunch, Madison Park, New Restaurants, Openings, Orcas Island, Pizza, Taste of the Town, The Herbfarm, Wait Watchers, Wine Bars, Wine and Food